Course Description:
Traffic stops are a daily occurrence for police officers. They are a routine procedure in law enforcement, but “routine” is not a place an officer should live. The traffic stop, while common, may become high risk in a moment’s notice. This is due to the unpredictable situation in the vehicle as well as outside factors like traffic, weather and road conditions. It is important for police officers to remain professional, engaging, and courteous during a traffic stop while also being able to make split-second decisions if something goes wrong.
This training will focus on the “8 Step Car Stop” used to obtain voluntary compliance. The training will focus on communication while maintaining control of the scene.
