Who should Attend: Commissioned Law Enforcement Officers

Course Description:
One of the greater challenges faced by law enforcement today is establishing and maintaining higher ethical standards for law enforcement personnel. Whether the current level of ethical and moral behavior among police officers is any worse today than it has been in the past is sometimes hotly debated. Indeed, some observers feel that the problem of police ethics is no worse now than it has ever been, but is simply more widely publicized today than in years past.

The purpose of this four (4) hour block of training is to introduce principles of professional and ethical conduct in the law enforcement community. We will examine how ethics and morals relate to the law enforcement role in society. We will discuss the concept of professionalism and how it relates to law enforcement in post-Ferguson policing. We will review the factors and influences that are present today when making law enforcement decisions.
